

THE SENTINEL.

RUFUS KING, EDITOR.

MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 25, 1860.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS.

An Expensive Luxury.

Democracy, as embodied in the BUCHANAN administration, has been in power rather more than three years. In that brief period they have spent the entire revenues of the country (upwards of sixty millions a year), as well as the surplus of eighteen millions which they found on hand when they took possession, and have incurred, besides, a debt of fifty-seven millions. Their aggregate expenditure, therefore, for the three years, has been two hundred and sixty-seven million dollars—ex-raging eighty-seven million dollars—ended thousand dollars a year. No doubt a large portion of this sum has been expended on political jobs, and to reward partisans.

A very considerable amount has been expended—out of the defalcation of the New York Democratic Postmaster, who is reaching nearly two hundred thousand dollars.

The report of the Covode Investigating Committee gives the public some slight idea of the corrupt and profligate use made of the public money by our National Democratic Administration.

But the half of the story has not been told. Many "State-Serts" are in the close keeping of Democratic office-holders, and will not be brought to light under the various departments of the Government, or of their present occupants.

There is one of the great measures of REFORM, which the election of LINCOLN and HAMLIN, with F. P. T., is destined to inaugurate. "A new broom sweeps clean," and the Federal Capital needs in aid of the most thorough reform.
